Are Married Couples Alike?

Some people say that good marriages are usually between people who are alike. They like the same music and they like similar activities. Sometimes, they even look alike. Other people say the best marriages are between people who are very different. Which is true? Let's look at two different couples.

Jake and Tina are in the tenth year of their marriage. They are very happy together. Both are tall with blonde hair, but Tina's hair is short and Jake's is long. They wear similar clothes: jeans and t-shirts. They like outdoor activities like walking and cycling. The wife and husband have similar personalities. They are both funny and like social situations. They are also very hard-working.

Linda and Ben are in the eighth year of their marriage and have the same birthday. But there are not many other similarities! They don't look alike at all. Linda is short with long, curly black hair. Ben is much taller. He has long, red hair and a mustache. Ben has a quiet personality. He is shy and likes to spend time at home. He reads a lot. Linda is athletic and outgoing and loves to be with large groups of people. They have different tastes in food. Ben loves beef and chicken but Linda doesn't eat meat or fish. She eats lots of fruit and vegetables. They say they that are both very happy together.

You can see that the two married couples are very different. Jake and Tina look similar and have the same tastes. Linda and Ben have different personalities. They don't look alike either. Scientists say this is the same around the world. Husbands and wives are not together because they are alike. And they are not together because they are different. There are many factors for why married couples get together. Similar or different tastes are just a small part of it.

30. Happy wives and husbands are (always / sometimes / never) alike.

31. There are (few / no / a lot of) reasons for why married couples get together.
