You say you want to be an outdoor activities instructor?

Here's "A day in the life" of Katherine Ball!

I'm an outdoor activities instructor. I help people with activities like rock climbing and sailing.

I teach them about outdoor life—how to live in the outdoors.

What kind of people sign up for the course? Well, most of them are people who live in the city. For some of them, it is the first time they are spending time away from the city. Most of them are young adults, but I also get older people and some high school kids, too. All of them tell me it's an experience that changed their lives. They continue to do these activities after the course.

On the first day at the camp, we put up tents and then we look for food like fruit, mushrooms, and plants. I teach them what we should eat and which food could be dangerous—if you eat it, it could make you sick. Then we cook a big meal. It's a lot of fun. The next day, we go mountain biking and go down to the lake. Here, I teach my customers about paddleboarding. It's quite easy so it doesn't take long.

The groups don't have to do the same activities every week. Some people want to do more mountain biking and others want to learn more about sailing. Younger people want to go rock climbing usually, but older people like to go walking. I know some great places for walks. Sometimes we see amazing birds and animals if we're lucky.

I love my job because it's about people having fun outdoors. It can be cold in the winter and very hot in the summer, but it's always a great time for everyone.
