Cruises can be a hassle

Many people dream about taking a cruise. It's a chance to see beautiful parts of the world, eat delicious food, and meet new people. Many people save money for years so they can take one of these cruises, because it is very expensive. But things aren't always so great on a cruise. There can be many hassles.

To begin with, think about the accommodation. The rooms on a cruise ship are usually very small. There isn't a lot of space for all your luggage, and it's difficult to move around the room if there are two of you staying in it. The windows in the rooms are very small—and some of the cheaper rooms don't have windows at all! And the view? Well, it's just water! For a lot of the time on your cruise, that's all you see: a lot of water.

Then there are the people. Well, you may meet some people who become good friends, of course. But what if you meet a lot of people you don't like? You have to stay on the ship with them for all of your vacation. You can't escape from them! And that's the other problem with cruises. You may have lots of activities to do, and good food to eat, but it's all in a very small space. It's a very small town that you can't leave very often.

When you do leave the ship, there are other problems, too. Cruise ships usually have thousands of passengers. So when it arrives at a tourist destination, everyone leaves the ship at the same time. Suddenly, there are thousands of sightseers who arrive in a city that already has many tourists. The city gets very busy for a few hours and then everyone gets back on the ship. That's not fun! So, next time you dream about taking a cruise, think about all the hassles. Cruises are expensive—and they may not be worth it!

You say you want to be a gym instructor?

Read "a day in the life" of gym instructor Ben Fisher.

I'm a gym instructor. Many people don't know the difference between a gym instructor and a private fitness instructor. The difference is that I don't have any private customers—anyone at the gym can ask me to help them at any time. I spend my day at the gym. I teach people how to use the equipment and show them different ways to get fit. Private fitness instructors teach individual customers. They do exercises with the customers. They do this at the gym or at people's homes.

I'm happy with my job. I don't have to work long hours like fitness instructors. I start at 8:00 A.M. and finish at 4:00 P.M., while other gym instructors start at 1:00 P.M. and finish at 9:00 P.M. I work one Saturday every month. The work isn't hard. I don't have to do all the exercises with customers. I give people a plan of the equipment they need to use. I also give them advice about how to stay in shape, and I keep everything clean. Sometimes there are problems with the equipment, and I'm trained to help with those.

The best part of my job is that I can use the gym for free. I don't have to pay to go to the gym. That's good because my salary isn't very high, and I like to stay fit. I also like talking to the customers. Many of them come to the gym three or four times a week, so I know them quite well.

I don't think I'm going to be a gym instructor in the future. I like it right now, but, as I said, the money isn't great. Maybe I'll take a course and become a sports psychologist.

48. Ben doesn't have to (do exercises / clean the equipment / work weekends).
49. Sometimes there are problems with the (customers / equipment / exercises).
50. Ben's favorite part of the job is (talking to customers / earning a high salary / using the gym for free).
