A Small House: But Which One?

Like many people, I am looking for a small house. I don't want to clean a large home! But there are many kinds of small homes. Let me tell you about two I'm thinking about buying. They're the same size, but they have different rooms.

About us: I live with my husband and two children. I'm a writer, and I work at home. My husband is a chef at a nice restaurant. Our daughters are eight and five years old. They both go to school. We have two cars, and it snows a lot where we live, so we want a garage.

The first house has one main room that has the kitchen, the dining table, a sofa and a rug, and a desk and a chair. That room is the kitchen-dining-living room-office. It has big windows, so it's very sunny on nice days. Then there are two bedrooms and two bathrooms. Each bedroom has its own bathroom. There are only five rooms in this house, but each room is big. This house has a garage for one car.

The second house has a kitchen, a living room, a dining room, three bedrooms, and one bathroom. The kitchen is big, so a dining table can go there. Then the dining room can be the home office. The living room is small, but it has a sofa and two chairs. The three bedrooms are also small, but each daughter can have her own room. This house has a garage for two cars.

What do you think? Which house is best for my family?

Writer Chat

INTERVIEWS | AUDIO | EDUCATION | SUBSCRIBE

Every month, Writer Chat interviews writers working on a new book. Read the interview with travel writer Ben Kent.

WC: I'm talking today with Ben Kent. Ben is working on a new book about the American West. Ben, where are you from?

BK: I'm from New York City.

WC: Really? Welcome to Colorado! So, you're visiting just for your new book?

BK: That's the main reason. But I'm also going hiking and bike riding. I love the mountains!

WC: Wow! That's great! So, tell me ... how do you prepare for your trips?

NAME: _____

DATE: _____

BK: For one thing, I always check the weather for the places I'm going. I can't pack a lot of clothes, so I choose very carefully! For my trips in the American West, I have a good jacket and great boots. When I'm traveling, I usually stay out from morning to evening, so I get lots of sleep. I go to bed early and get up early. I eat a big breakfast and bring food with me for lunch.

WC: Do you do any kinds of exercise?

BK: Yes! I walk almost everywhere on my trips. When you're writing a travel book, it's important to walk. If you drive, you miss important details. When you walk, you see everything.

WC: So, are you going anywhere special today?

BK: Well, if it's sunny, I'm going hiking in the Garden of the Gods. I'm very excited to see the tall rock towers and write all about them!

WC: That does sound exciting! It's a long walk, I think. I hope you have plenty of food!

BK: Me, too! But there's also a café there.

WC: That's good! Thanks so much for talking with us today, Ben. We wish you the best with your new book!

BK: Thank you!
