

Inductive Grammar Charts

For the Teacher

The Grammar Self-checks encourage students to take a close look at the grammar structures taught in the Student's Book lessons and discover the underlying grammar rules for themselves. They can be used in two ways. If you prefer an inductive grammar approach, use them as alternative to presenting the grammar charts in the Student's Book. If you prefer a more deductive approach, use them to confirm understanding of the grammar point after presenting the grammar charts in the Student's Book.

A Grammar Self-check activity consists of two parts: (1) example sentences containing the grammar structure for students to study and (2) a follow-up completion activity ("Figure It Out") focusing on the relevant grammar rules. The grammar rules in Figure It Out are carefully worded so that students can complete them by studying the examples in the grammar box.
